Audra Daubariene is a vice-dean of the Faculty of Humanities and a lecturer of the Center of Foreign Languages at Kaunas University of Technology (KTU).

Audra Daubariene graduated in English Language and Philology from Vilnius University in 1990, and since then has been teaching English at KTU.

For the past 8 years her major professional interest has been in ICT application for teaching English. She participated in 2 “ICT in Vocationally Oriented Language Learning” workshops at ECML, Graz (2000 and 2002); teacher training workshops “International ICT Trainers Workshop” and “ICT in ELT: from Technology to Pedagogy” (organized by the British Council 2001, 2002). Together with her colleagues she has conducted a number of ICT in ELT workshops for Lithuanian teachers at secondary and tertiary levels.

Audra Daubariene has participated in a number of EU Socrates Grundtvig, Leonardo da Vinci and Erasmus Tempus JEP projects related to ICT in language learning, quality assurance and curriculum development for language learning.
