Sabrina Maffei teaches at the Università per Stranieri di Siena as a CEL (Linguistic Expert Collaborator).

After graduating in Foreign Languages and Literature from the University of Pisa in 1985, she worked for three years in the field of special language courses on electronic support for foreign learners inside the Video Italia research project under Professor Tullio De Mauro's scientific direction.

At the end of the project, she started working at the Università per Stranieri di Siena, where she teaches Italian as a foreign language and has been holding training courses for teachers of Italian abroad since 1993.

Within the Università per Stranieri di Siena she is a member of the DITALS staff (Certification of Teaching of Italian as a Second Language) and of the FAST staff (Centre for Education and Linguistic Training with Technological Support).

Amongst her publications, L'italiano per operatori economici (Gospodarski Vestnik, Lubiana 1993), La microlingua ontopsicologica (in "L'incomunicabilità di massa", Edizioni dell'Orso, Alessandria 1994), Studiamo l'economia (Edizioni Aida, Firenze 2001).
