Silva Kastelic is a teacher of Slovenian and German. She teaches Slovenian at the Secondary School of Nursing Ljubljana, Slovenia. In cooperation with the Faculty of Arts she has been working on Slovenian as a foreign language. She is the author of articles dealing with the didactics of Slovenian as a first and second language. As well as this, she is a co-author of several course books. As a member of the National Commission for Vocational Matura Examination (for Slovenian) she takes an active part in preparing the matura examination and also in educating other teachers. Between 2003 and 2005 she was the head of the Leonardo da Vinci project with the title Healthy Languages at the Secondary School of Nursing Ljubljana. The school received the European Language Reward for this project.
